Many of us know that Black History Month is a great opportunity to spend some quality time to instill key values in our children. We carefully pick periodicals of significance to read.

NuBiAh is one such book that the teaches history while establishing a strong sense of self-worth. This unique series of spoken word bedtime stories teaches about the rich heritage that Black people came from.

The truth is that before coming to American, many of us were Kings and Queens or members of the royal family. Through the tragedy of slavery we became victims of psychological warfare. With no connection to our land and people, we lost our history and became less knowledgeable about our greatness as time went on.

NuBiAh is an entertaining work that helps parents empower their children about their rich heritage. Now more than ever we can break the cycle of low self-esteem and inferiority in our community. We can build confidence in our children while paving a pathway to success. NuBiAh is especially designed for parents who want their children to excel with sustainable competitive advantage. The psychology of the mind is extremely important in child development, As boxing great Sugar Ray Leonard said, "You have to know you can win. You have to be thinking you can win. You have to feel you can win."

Behavior follows values. Biblically based book NuBiAh focuses on key values and principles, such as courage, dignity, honor and respect. It is filled with great examples to aspire to, such as Queen Asantewa (strong woman of courage), King Hannibal (Master strategist) and Queen Nefertiti (the beautiful Queen who not only had a strong moral code but also was highly skilled in politics and debate). Because this information is not taught in schools, many remain unsure of themselves with no connection to greatness, no self-worth, direction or self-respect. For some, rap music has done more harm than good to their psyche.

The recurring theme, "Listen to the Drum," guides children to find passion, respect their fellow man and participate in a unity of purpose. The local church community is happily embracing NubiAh, as a much needed fundraiser. Royal Graphics Publishing is donating hundreds of books to help churches raise funds. The Peoples Baptist Church in Oakland California, where L. W. Brice is the Pastor, is very pleased. They will sell books within their community this Black History Month to generate revenue and donations. Other participating churches are grateful, honored and delighted. The same opportunity is now available to local area churches in Birmingham, Ala. Twenty percent of all net proceeds will go to the Boys and Girls Club of America.
